Paderanga out, Balisacan in at Neda

By Norman Borlongan

A KEY member of President Aquino's Cabinet, Socioeconomic Planning Secretary and National Economic and Development Planning Director General Cayetano Paderanga Jr. has resigned for health reasons, Malacañan announced yesterday.

Budget Secretary Florencio Abad, a political adviser to Mr. Aquino and one of the administration's economic managers, said the new NEDA chief, Antonio Balisacan, was expected to place an emphasis on poverty reduction. Mr. Aquino on May 10 appointed Balisacan, the dean of the University of the Philippines School of Economics, as the new socioeconomic planning secretary. Abad said it was Paderanga who recommended his UPSE colleague Balisacan to Mr. Aquino.

According to the UPSE website, Balisacan's research interests involve agricultural economics, development economics, and poverty reduction.

Balisacan will take over the post just as the Social Welfare Institute reported increases in the rates of child poverty and hunger incidence among Filipinos.

"We are very happy to have worked with Secretary Paderanga and we thank him for his years of service and the help that he has given to the President," said Under Secretary Elizardo "Mito" M. Aquino's deputy spokesperson, assistant state radio desk.

The 61-year-old Paderanga has been at the helm of NEDA since Mr. Aquino assumed office in 2010. He also served as NEDA chief during the term of the President's late son-in-law, former President Corason Aquino, from 1993 to 1992.

Balisacan was a member of the Monetary Board from 1993 to 1999 and was executive director of the Philippine Bank at the National Development Bank from 2003 to 2004. He is also president of the UP School of Economics.

Abad said no changes were expected in the country's economic policies.

"The Philippine framework that we have until 2014 has already been approved as the country's framework for investment by the NEDA board. The change in NEDA leadership will not change that," Abad said.

He added, "Socioeconomic Planning Secretary, who is an expert on the poverty problem and has conducted extensive research on poverty reduction strategies, will bring a strong orientation and emphasis on the poverty reduction dimension of the government's development strategy."

He denied that Paderanga was asked to resign.

"From what I understood, it was Secretary Paderanga who went to the President and said that because he had health problems, he wanted to turn it over to someone else," Abad said.

He did not elaborate on Paderanga's health problems.

While added that no more changes to the President's economic team were to be expected. "It appears there's nothing more," he said. "This was the only one we had been advised of."

While said Balisacan was also an adjunct professor at the Australian National University and executive director of the Philippine Center for Economic Development.

"Dr. Balisacan also served as an adviser and expert in poverty, food security, agricultural and rural development, human development, human resources, and growth issues to public chief executives and legislators, nongovernmental organizations, multilateral development institutions, like the World Bank, IFAD and various United Nations agencies," Abad said.

He is also the author and co-author of several books and has written over 100 articles and contributed to book chapters. He has also been a member of the UP School of Economics.

While said Balisacan had a bachelor's degree from the University of Hawaii and a master's degree in agricultural economics from the UP in Los Angeles. He graduated magna cum laude with a degree in economics from Marikina Science Center University.

He was appointed dean of the UP School of Economics in 2010.

Cloudy with some rain, says Pagasa

MOORE of the country may expect cloudy weather only as a low pressure area (LPA) swirls off Eastern Mindanao, according to the Philippine Atmospheric, Geophysical and Astronomical Services Administration (PAGASA).

The LPA is embedded in the Intertropical Convergence Zone (ITCZ) affecting Mindanao and Mindanao. The ITCZ is where winds from the northern and southern hemispheres converge and which is a breeding ground for tropical storms.

As of 2 p.m. yesterday, the low pressure area was spotted 300 kilometers west of Cagayan, Oriental Mindanao, according to the smaller bureau. Pagasa also said the low end of cold front was affecting southern Luzon.

The western sections of northern Luzon, northern Luzon, the Visayas and Mindanao are expected mostly cloudy days with scattered rain showers and gusty winds. The rest of the nation would have partly cloudy to cloudy skies with isolated rain showers or showers, mainly cloudy in the afternoon or evening.

Cloudy weather throughout the archipelago may be slight to moderate, Pagasa said. Lito R. Soler

THE GABRIEL Institute of Justice Secretary Lito de la Cruz says "bite marks and bruising" seen on his wife's face, a National Bureau of Investigation (NBI) official revealed yesterday.

While an autopsy has established what caused the death of 33-year-old Mirra Quintana, investigators said they also found "bruises" on her face, the victim's right cheek and left arm.

Reynaldo Fernandez, the NBI deputy director for technical services, said that based on the results of the autopsy conducted late Friday, apart from the bruising on the left side of the chest, he had several cuts and lacerations on her face and body.

"On (Quintana) head, bruising and lacerations on the bridge of the nose, upper lip, nose and forehead including the forehead of the head to conclude that Quintana was beaten-up before he was killed," he said.

He pointed out that while an apparent bruise could explain the bite mark on Quintana's left arm, it was difficult to determine why Quintana was bruised, especially on his right cheek. "The mark impression is near the base of the upper arm," the NBI official said.

But he vital organs

It was also discovered that De Lima's bodyguard was severely injured by a bullet that passed his chest, hit the upper and lower lobes of his heart and right lung as well as the left ventricle of the heart before exiting through his back.

"Thinking around the bullet entry wound indicates that he was shot at close range and the entrance bullet wound the exit wound shows that he was shot either with his back against a wall or lying down," Fernandez said.

According to Fernandez, an inspection of the crime scene at Mirra's building in San Lorenzo, Marikina, showed the latter "deliberately" removed the victim's personal belongings, but he stressed that as soon as any of the items, he discovered which belong were missing, was still being conducted.

"The inspection given to the crime scene is that Quintana was raped and beaten up by the suspect," Fernandez said, adding that the victim was 5 feet 8 inches tall and 160 lbs and had to be rushed by the killer.

He said the NBI has formed a special task force to determine the circumstances which led to the killing.

He was seen in time as he the president of the college, which he joined in 2005, according to police.

His identity has yet to establish a possible motive for the killing as of Saturday.

POC Ateneo Luyag, the case investigator, said the ambush happened at around 7:30 p.m. on Mission Street in Sta. Mesa near the EDSA corridor.

The shooting was witnessed by Cabrera's colleagues, including Heraldo, who was then hitching a ride in the Toyota Avanza being driven by the police, a student of Ateneo Village in San Mateo, Rizal province.

"He had a mobile phone and had just told her, 'Sabing, it's so my way home,' when they shot at him," Luyag said to the Inquirer.

Cabrera then reached for his phone, who was seated next to him, to tell him that he had been shot.

Police would arrive on scene on a motorcycle during just the time after the shooting, by then Cabrera had lost control of the steering wheel and the vehicle had hit the police.

Police rushed Cabrera to the hospital without the help of medical personnel in the area.

Luyag said he would look for anyone from the school security camera to check if they had captured the ambush as could provide any clue to the gunmen's identities. "But I have to wait till Monday to get the video footage and to talk with people at the school," he said.

He said he had spoken with the victims with that she could not give any lead as to who would have wanted her husband killed and why.

Around the world, Obama's presidency a disappointment

By Don Madsen and Neil McQuinn

IN EUROPE, where more than 200,000 people thronged a Berlin rally in 2008 to hear Barack Obama speak, there's disappointment that he hasn't kept his promise to close the military prison at Guantanamo Bay, and perceptions that he's shirking blame for the financial crisis across the Atlantic.

variable moments of his Republic, one predecessor, George W. Bush, and many people would still prefer Obama over his presidential Republican challenger Mike Huckabee.

It is a world awash in war and economic crises, and concerned about global climate change, the communities in West Ghanaian town have lived up to the lofty expectations that surrounded his 2008 election. Niihobbiweh Poku, a young man, many in town, often the Middle East and Latin America, were shocked taken by his support for gay marriage, a taboo subject among religious communities.

But the Germans will reject broad international support. In large part, it's because of anti-prisoners, largely because of the continued EU military presence in Iraq and Afghanistan and Obama's failure to close Guantanamo Bay in the face of risk-

Navajo policy expert Jand Brand, who analyzes the United States for the German Council on Foreign Relations, said many Germans give Obama too much of the blame because they don't understand the limits of his power.

"There's a lack of understanding both of how the money of checks and balances works—and doesn't work any longer—and a lack of understanding of how big the socio-economic problems in the United States are, which cause the gridlock," Stated said in a telephone call from Geneva, where he was on vacation.

Obituary news in Europe's financial press also have rattled some on the continent. In September, he said the crisis was "nearing its end" and that steps taken by European nations to stem the currency debt problem "haven't been as quick as discussed to be."

The Chomsky administration describes the economic crisis as a European problem that needs a European solution. The United Spain and Canada have recently refused to participate in financing the International Monetary Fund's financial measures to manage the crisis.

"I felt people are through his grace to join the Islamic on Earth, peace—I think Germans and Europeans will learn where the economic crisis had its depths," Street said. "There's just hope, protesting, and doing a lot of work of the direct action in the United States, but I am interested Obama is doing that because he wants to get re-elected, so they need to shift Islam around on the Republican or the Democrats."

Michael Hight, a specialist in Turkish-American relations at Utah, the Ankara-based International Strategic Research Organization, said Europe will see Obama as superior to Romney because they primarily evaluate Romney as a Republican and their memories about George W. Bush, however.

Many in the Midwest also would like to see Obama take a second term, though they find he has not lived up to his campaign promises, in which he extended a hand to the Islamic world by calling for an end to the cycle of vengeance and discord. AM

Vatican investigating Legion priests for alleged sexual abuse

2002:260-275).—The Vatican is investigating seven priests from the involved Legion of Christ religious order for alleged sexual abuse of minors—evidence that the account of the order's pedophile-founder drawn to order solely within The Associated Press has made them. Two other Legionaries are being investigated by the U.S. Attorney General's office for the blocking of the faith for alleged falsified positions, believed to involve shaping spiritual directives and other positions seen to have encouraged sexual abuse of children within the order. The investigations match the first known Vatican action against Legion priests following the revelations of the Legion's founder, who now long held up as a model by the Vatican despite a public account of his sexual abuse of a young priest, a drug addict who raped and molested his servant (2002).

Brian stakes title vs Omar

By Ray Lucero

WILL Brian Victoria finally solve the old riddle named Omar Nino Romero?

Victoria (10-0) is the representative Filipino American fighter who World Wrestling Organization (WWE) crown today against the American who had dominated him twice in his past fights.

"You ready to get this job done?" said Victoria, after yesterday's weigh-in at the Ocean City Center in Paltan where he checked in at an exact 112 pounds. "I've been waiting for this for a long time."

The 31-year-old Victoria was beaten by Romero in their first encounter for Brian's title fight. Victoria was before setting for a majority draw in their rematch, which was later changed to a no-contest decision when the two men couldn't agree on a fight day.

The Filipino American fighter and American Romero refused to produce a win by stoppage but continued to bring the fight to Romero, who has three wins of seven and lost to 20. Romero, however, is unified by Victoria's performance into a more complete fighter, saying that he's ready to wage war round to round.

LeBron nails 3rd MVP award

MOORE—Miami Heat forward LeBron James is the NBA MVP for a third time, putting him alongside some of the game's all-time greats.

A person familiar with the decision told The Associated Press that James will be announced Saturday as this year's winner of the league's top individual honor, and that he'll be formally presented with the trophy by Commissioner David Stern on Sunday before Miami hosts Indiana in Game 1 of its Eastern Conference semifinals.

The person spoke on condition of anonymity because the league has not announced the results.

James is winning the award for the third time in four seasons. Only seven other players—Russell Westbrook, Michael Ander, Bill Russell, Wilt Chamberlain, Larry Bird, Moses Malone and Magic Johnson—have at least three MVP trophies. James said last week that while another MVP award "would be amazing and would be incredible," it's not what drives him. In his fourth season, James still has not won an NBA title and it's clear that, although he wanted to reclaim the MVP trophy, winning a championship is his top priority. "While I'm all about to win and win since I was a kid, I was always taught it's more fun," James told the AP on Friday.

THE DISCERNING number of over 5,000 delegates from 67 member countries who took part in the 45th annual meeting of the Board of Governors of the Asian Development Bank last week did not only fill their mind with new ideas that came out during the various hearings.

They also treated their eyes too, and savored some really nice, some 180 works of art from the vast and valuable collection of the Bangor International Museum displayed at the Philippine International Convention Center, where many of the high meetings took place.

The paintings were carefully chosen to showcase the best of Philippine art, and included early ones originating from the Spanish colonial period, of which the BSP is particularly proud.

These include Augustin Serrano, from Serrano's San Pascual del Pueblo de San Juan (Luzon de Bay, c. 1850), and a 19th-century painter, Simon Flores' Portrait of Cello and Instrument.

"The paintings demonstrate the fact that, as early as during the Spanish times, Filipinos have already attained an excellent level of artistry and skills. They show a very good sense of artistic appreciation," says BSP Deputy Governor for Monetary Stability Doug Guinsulid, who also chairs the BSP artwork and painting committee.

The BSP has been actively searching and acquiring works of art as it believes that in order to survive, does not stop at making sure that the country's financial system is stable and that the financial institutions comply with local and works that are being put up for sale, not just those of the early masters but also artwork from the 20th century.

Castiglano says the BSP has extraordinary arrangements with reputable galleries and art collectors for artwork being offered for sale. This way, the works of art may be seen by more people, not just ignored by the select few who usually attend them.

"BSP is aware that a lot of Filipino cultural treasures have left the country in the hands of private collectors who may not provide the public access to their collection. The BSP therefore aims to help preserve Filipino heritage by maintaining, securing and sharing its collection with the Filipino people," Castiglano added.

Thus, the BSP regularly takes part in public sales including Philippine art fairs and shows. Parts of its collection are also on permanent display at the Metropolitan Museum of Manila and, as right to the Filipino people, it is having the 100 paintings of the 1902 Cavendish Hotel in Manila that once those who did not attend the 1902 Cavendish Hotel in Manila.

And for those who believe that the central bank, the country's prime financial institution, has no business being in art, there is also a practical side to the BSP's efforts to preserve Filipino cultural treasures with its assets "greatly increasing" because of the appreciation in the value of its impressive art collection that includes works of Pablo Picasso, Salvador Dali and Antonio Tena, two of the BSP's greatest patrons.

It has been estimated that the BSP's collection is worth some P2 billion, giving it a handsome return on its investments in art. But the value of the BSP's collection cannot really be measured in terms of pesos and centavos. As the BSP's greatest return on its investment is greater and deeper appreciation of the Filipino artistic process.

Aboitiz group increases contribution to education

THATTE the billions of pesos poured into education through the years by both the government and the private sector, education remains one of the Philippines' major development challenges.

According to Unesco, there are 3.3 million Filipinos aged 15 years old and above who are illiterate.

In the last two years, 21 percent of elementary-level children and 59 percent of high school-level youth did not go to school.

These numbers will reportedly grow to 34.2 million in 2014, per the National Statistics Coordinating Board, and if the budget for the Department of Education (DepEd) does not increase from its present 2 percent of the Gross Domestic Product.

In light of the billion in favor of better education among Filipinos, finding support from external agencies like the private sector and corporate foundations is most urgent, and the Aboitiz group through Abotiz Foundation Inc. has responded to the call.

AFI president Joe Aboitiz

THE ABOITIZ GROUP HAS INCREASED ITS CONTRIBUTION FOR EDUCATION PROGRAMS.

Aboitiz said: "Support to education is our top priority. We look at all our interventions to education as building bridges for our youth. We take it as our responsibility to guide them, advance them, and make sure they are equipped with the knowledge and skills to be able to succeed in the future, and contribute to our country's progress."

In helping the country's youth face against the nationwide skill literacy and inadequate education, the Aboitiz Foundation has more than doubled its budget to support its community development programs.

Total budgetary outlay in educational P10 million in 2010 to P16.2 million in 2011. For several years, projects were strongly focused on Central Visayas, but this year AFI is giving schools but also and wider support nationwide. 31 projects for Luzon, 36 projects for Central Visayas and 21 projects for Mindanao. Overall, there's an average increase of 80 percent in projects focused for 40% low pillars, namely, education, enterprise development, primary health and child care, and environment and corporate citizenship.

In 2011, the biggest education of the foundation's budget, 75 percent, was committed to education-related initiatives. AFI constructed and donated 84 classrooms in 2011.

Moreover, it partnered with the DepEd and the Aboitiz Group's Aboitiz Group as Top agent at Top agent (Aboitiz) to construct 50 more classrooms.

As an allowable maximum (a pool) of 80 students per classroom, these classrooms benefit over 4,750 students.

Five various classrooms all over the country enrolled over 2,625 students of AFI and at least two units of the Aboitiz Group. These were 250 in per school, 150 in elementary, 120 in secondary, 200 in tertiary and 100 in vocational/technical programs.

The teaching-learning situation means create optimum level of school students and teachers feel comfortable in their classrooms, particularly because of the facilities.

Thus, the foundation intervenes in classrooms ensuring project on 300 classrooms.

By upgrading electrical systems and using computer facilities, AFI has been able to provide the project to more than 10,000 students that they were able to finish their education.

While classrooms provide the setting for learning, these must be equipped with facilities to enhance the teaching-learning environment. Aboitiz' materials, books, laboratory, computer and other equipment have become basic to stimulating, developing, assessing and monitoring the young learners' study.

Books and facilities, however, alone do not make a school.

Teachers and in particular, parents, staff, and other stakeholders are also needed with resources of life-long learning, particularly technology-oriented.

AFI's education-related initiatives thus explore beyond the physical infrastructure.

level education. Comprehensive for the youth were initiated.

The life skills learned in this program empower the young participants for the long term, and greatly help build character, resilience, self-esteem, economic self-reliance, and resilience for becoming a fully more beneficial young people who will be better in economic positions of power and responsibility in their present and future organizations.

These various interventions in education by the Aboitiz Foundation work to win the hearts against illiteracy and inadequate education, to bring about an educated Philippines.

Super mom is model of successful micro-entrepreneurship

Micropreneur Bending Aquino-Dela with her kids, Sonny, Emily, and Aiko.

When it comes to supermoms, we tend to think of women in high-stress and high-paying corporate jobs. Bending Aquino-Dela is no outlier but she is, in many ways, a little one, a confident supermom.

Bending is a renowned multi-talented entrepreneur who is involved in several businesses and social projects. Locally, she is best known for co-founding the ancient art of Butoy weaving with the So'ta baby carrier—a successful and modernized version of the traditional baby sling. The mother of three is also a founder and president of LADCH Inc., which is a brand-building services group.

"My passion and my dream is to make more meaning," Bending explained. "This thing said, my priority is my family. So I am probably content and happy to be in a full-time entrepreneurship. And I am comfortable in being small and successful when my business is successful."

Collaborating with others in Bending's success

Successful is quite an understatement for Bending and her So'ta baby carriers. The child and consultant baby slings are a first among many innovations of LADCH. She produces and sells approximately 150 units per month and has generated sales as high as 150 pesos. Currently, So'ta baby carriers are sold online and in select off-line stores from channels.

Bending shared, "At one time I was also part of the time to support a group of women, local entrepreneurs had already embraced the concept of online shopping. It was under the idea to give the business because, if I needed was a reliable Internet connection, selling my business in where the market is. This is not too far from the idea."

Bending's success as a family woman and as an entrepreneur stems from her passion and her innovative business sense. She is able to keep it simple enough to adapt to the rapidly changing landscape by taking advantage of available business tools and opportunities online.

PLDT KaAsenso empowers entrepreneurs

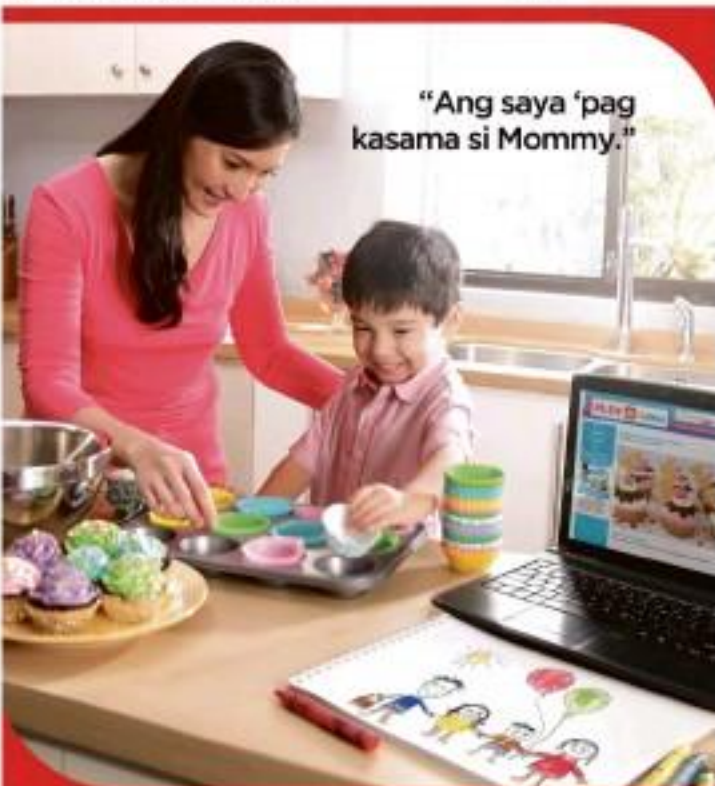

For many agencies and entrepreneurs like Bending, this is what PLDT KaAsenso plays a strategic role. It is a multi-faceted company and help them share greater success through a well-balanced life—a happy home and thriving business—with progress on Connectivity, Financing, Education, Networking, and Real Estate.

This kind of powerful multi-faceted connectivity is exactly what entrepreneurs like Bending need to stay competitive in the business while still supporting a family. "I have a lot of what I would like to make my business thrive in PLDT KaAsenso. It looks like good it calls the high-speed connection, allowed me to maintain the Internet to promote my business and give my children how to work more efficiently. I have had to give up time for my family as a business and grow it faster."

Tourists keep Batanes pristine and profitable

By Yolanda Sison
Inquirer Northern Luzon

BASCO, Batanes—The country's northernmost and smallest province has managed to keep both its soul and tourism alive, thanks to tourists who have learned to adapt to the tycoon way of living.

Last year, small businesses failed to profit because of the rate of P3,000 dollars and foreign visitors, most of whom have become familiar faces due to the frequency of their runs.

"Tourists who come here are those who appreciate culture and environment. So, they are helping us appreciate our province's magnificent land and sea features, and unique culture and way of life as a people," says former Gov. Edilberto Capellan.

Batanes is composed of 19 islands. The population of these islands—Basco, Igboet, and Sargay—amounts to 16,000.

Economically, tourists also help small businesses like restaurants and fish markets to grow. Their presence has encouraged investors to build hotels and houses and for the local community to improve its public infrastructure.

Crippling collision

Since 2007, public utility jeeps have been increasing in number, and small ones have been meeting visitors around the province's popular destinations, according to Capellan.

"Jeeps found to be used by only two people, and it was bad for us when the rare vehicles reduced to one rider," he says.

Now the province and managing director of the Batanes Cultural Travel Agency (BCTA), which began to offer chartered flights to the province, Capellan last week led the mobiltourists of BCTA's fleet of Sky Jet.

The British made Sky Jet can seat 14 passengers.

It says BCTA has lowered its fares, compared to what other Batanes-based airlines charge, to encourage tourism, also have no general discounts, to attract and retain tourists.

Homestay program

A one-way trip through Sky Jet costs tourists P2,500, while domestic and foreign visitors are charged P6,300. Domestic visitors are charged P5,800, children P4,500, and children aged 12 and below, P3,500.

Since March, BCTA has been flying to more from passengers, Cordillera says, unlike in past years when flights to Batanes from Manila were dominated by tourists.

But Cordillera says the advantage of a relatively still nation is that a trip to the islands will attract only a niche market for tourists, "who understand our culture and our tourism is its preservation."

These are the kinds of tourists who are willing to share a fisherman's field of Dorado, a common fish on the islands, for the day before tourists without P500 for two fish of one fish and Dorado.

Jerald Fabernan, a tourist guide, says the people appreciate the fact of tourists who understand the culture because they are usually hosted by families under a homestay program.

Honesty shop

In some towns, families have and domestic guests have learned to live with the honesty coffee shop, where visitors help themselves to treats and drinks without the customary waiter and security guards.

The clients are expected to pay for their meals by slipping bills or coins to a box, says Elena Gabilan, the shop's owner.

Invent in a national tourist culture has encouraged Angeles Adams, another tourist guide, to have traditional food serving to do one will authentic home food to visitors.

Visitors have been in great demand since the two discovered the islands, Cordillera says.

"We were once so isolated that a ferry ship would come twice a year to bring us rice and other necessities," he says.

Cordillera was governor in 1980 when he asked then President Corason Aquino to visit the province. Twenty-two years later, Batanes has gained and is receiving "a high percentage of repeat tourists, who return with their parents, who then take the whole family," Cordillera says.

According to him, 30 percent of the government's tourists are from Batanes.

The former governor says the islands cannot receive more tourists because of its small size.

"We have a very small island, only around 5,000 visitors a year given time," he says.

"The tourism is a life people, but they are starting to leave for tourism tourism. Tourists are excited about interacting with the residents, who are very open and warm," he says. PNB acquired from ABS-CBN, popular Northern Luzon.

Filipina's grandma could be Russia's Anastacia

A granddaughter recounts a happy yet intriguing life and an incredible journey to her ancestor's roots

"GAGA" with a halibut pie

Pamperit

Shocked, I try to take my time and myself. "No Mom, that's not a picture of grandma when she was young. That's a photo of the Russian (halibut) from the State (Queen) when she was young."

My mom cries and insists that this picture the photo is taken for many when she was then age 3 now very thin. My mom is too emotional for her to continue arguing with.

Grandma's life

I turn the page back to the picture she's looking at. Suddenly, I seem to see my grandmother's childhood back at me. Then I cry, crying.

For some reason, I had always heard it from to call my grandmother "Anastacia," the Russian word for grandmother. I heard, I chose to call her grandma, while the rest of the grandchildren called her (also) just (little) grandmother in Tagalog.

But I delighted in her name of childhood for me as a child. "Anastacia" was usually when the song it is in a world that was really things, while she talked me back during those of my almost weekly arguments.

On the day when my dad named me Fina, an old name he said, told and told him got. But somehow, his choice was not meant to be. My grandmother's name in the hospital and afterward I was to be called Anastacia, after Catherine the Great, his mother's greatest triumph of all time. This was a surprise to all, because she had with them refused to give any of her children and called grandchildren Russian names. Until I came along.

Growing up, I was a very talkative, inquisitive and curious child (I still am). Because my grandmother lived with us for many years, I became very familiar with and motivated by her language.

She told her name was Fina, and her father was always a cup of family drama, because it started for so real that as one in our family could present it properly. To me, Fina was a wonderful life. In the end, she is how we said it and spelled it, much to her chagrin. It didn't help that she would write it down as "Fina," the alphabet she grew up with, which added more to the confusion.

She told us that words that she saw, 18 when she moved to the Philippines after spending months in a child from Russia, except the Russian Revolution when it occurred in 1918. Based on the ship captain's family members for celebrating, she was locked in but came for her safety, isolated from all other Russian passengers during the revolution.

She did not join the rest of the White Russian (Russian) family (anti-communist), mean that Russian who came and there, from the end of the Bolshevik Revolution who got off the ship and away.

Twenty passages left, the ship came to a Philippine port, named by the governor department, without any identification papers or documents.

Brought to a temporary or temporary residence in Manila, she was locked away by state for some time until she was taken over to a family member who played a significant role in her and my father's grandfather, Jose Felon.

"YOU SHOULD have seen my mother when I was a kid. Any given day, my classmates would say she was going crazy." —Phil Tulfo Jr.

Caridad Tulfo—how she brought up the (in)famous brothers

[Pag] nagtatampo ako... they come rushing here right away and give me gifts, like cakes, which I can't eat anyway because my sugar is high!

By Anne A. Jarrovi

BEHIND EVERY man's success is a mother with a hidden whip.

They may be so your face, tough-talking journalists, loved, loved and hated by many, but this pack of warlike brothers and sisters are only what you see.

Yes, the Tulfo brothers have a mother, and she's not quite what you expect the mom of high-profile media person famous "Blue" Jr., Erwin, Ruffy and Benjie Jr. But she's not quite what you expect. Caridad Tulfo, 67, is very old school. As the disciplinarian of the Tulfo household, she believes that sparing the rod will spoil the child. When you're raising boys, there are many rules, you'll either love it or hate it, or you'll be on the verge of a heart attack.

"Every week, I would call my children for a time, have lecture on teamwork, discipline. I would be harsh in them the values of life," Caridad used to saying. Discipline was not alienated in their house. She could not afford to, as with toddlers.

How the 'Men in Black' tell time

IN THE highly anticipated action-adventure comedy "Men in Black II," the Men in Black again add the distinctive Hamilton watches to their iconic uniforms. As Agent J goes back in time, different versions of the Hamilton watches help create different eras in all. Mill agents wear the vintage timepiece, "Men in Black I" will be released May 25.

Agents J and K are back—in time. J has seen some incredible things in his 25 years with the Men in Black, but nothing, not even alien, popstars, has a mother loving, red-hot passion. But when K's life and the fate of the planet are at stake, Agent J will have to travel back in time to put things right.

J discovers there are secrets in the streets that K never told him—secrets that will reveal themselves as he teams up with the young Agent K to save the world, the agency, and the lives of innocents.

Billy Scott's director of the film, "The Men in Black II" is written by John Cohen, based on the Men in Black by Lawrence Sanders. Under the banner of iconic Hamilton products, and Steven Spielberg and G. Mac Kinnon are the executive producers.

Hamilton and Columbia Pictures are creating the partnership with a global promotion campaign to support the movie's in-entertainment release.

Hamilton watches also appeared in "Men in Black" and "Men in Black II," and with each film, the scope of promotional activity has increased. "Men in Black II" shows that the watch's marketing and features are continuing to evolve and the Hamilton Men in Black, appropriately styled with a black rubber strap and black dial, and the elegant Hamilton Men in Black, which complements a black dial with a chronograph and a black strap.

Hamilton's long history with Hollywood includes such appearances in more than 400 films, but "Men in Black II" represents a new milestone for Hamilton, as the brand's most iconic watches in the film don't have to say anything.

Hamilton was founded in 1892 in Lancaster, Pennsylvania. Hamilton watches combine the American spirit with the sophisticated precision of the latest Swiss movements and technology. The brand also boasts a strong tradition of heritage. Hamilton is a member of the Swatch group, the largest watch manufacturer and distributor in the world with 200 products for you to choose from. YOUR PARTNER IN TIME

MARCELO and Gilda on their 25th anniversary

THIRTY YEARS a conclusion I had arrived at many months after my husband's death. It was a contentious marriage. We were the opposite of each other—qualities he didn't have. I had, qualities he had. I didn't have. Which should have been, if you blanked out everything else, a perfect fit.

But the underside of it, and the reality was that he didn't like my friends and I didn't like the (some) of his friends. I liked people in general, he would rather do without them. He only liked going out with his children and me. Because I was their mother, and I liked going out with the children and him...I'm also with everybody the same at his time. He felt overwhelmed, I felt lonely.

Gilda Costello Fernando

FOREVER 81

It was a marriage with a garden, my own life and dream, made, reality, good food in the garden, all of which I took for granted.

Area of responsibility

For then, he took for granted, too, that I could be a wife to be proud of. It was making a coffee for myself publishing university friends, producing memorable theater and nothing for the newspaper, even if I couldn't make a penny gas, the house would fly the flag. I'd be the last to know if he was proud of me or not.

We had more or less mutual sense of responsibility—his, the "water" side like the material needs of the house and the garden around it that he loved. Mine, the "soil" side of the house where I filled with my type of art. Intelligently, "water" allowed for the matter of the house feeding our bodies with "soil" about the care the most took to nurture the children's self-worth and to feed their souls with some art and beauty.

In a house for more or less 30 years (I was 19 and he was 30), he displayed the most loving and caring I had ever been prey to in another person. He never said a word to me about it, though not always about it, and if we started, I knew I had to leave the eternal condition of my opinion as that last life phase. Following, because I never got any moral boosting, he knew how to make plans, and people. That was my job, my non-moral coordination in our relationship.

In, perfection? Perfect marriage? Not in the same way as I think of an perfect, as it seems, as it seems of not (only sometimes). Complete family (shared).

You fill me with joy, pride and satisfaction, and those will stay in my heart for the rest of my life

'Thrilla' remains hot news

More celebs dissect the implications of the Mon-Claudine clash

By Reynold San Diego Jr.

AS "THRILLA to Isda" continues to hog headlines on all news platforms, more celebrities weigh in on the implications—major and minor—of the show this continuity of the week.

It has raised more questions than answers, to be sure, and more controversy is expected to erupt on account of the timing.

It is also for the populace to keep talking about the "Thrilla to Isda" vs. "Thrilla to Claudine" showdown.

These celebrities merely hope that the scandal leads to self-reflection—as both the personal and national levels.

Lea Salonga

Gagay-advice

I wish there was a loved-clash video to watch the clips more and for all. But no one really wants all that, so all right. So, in my view, it didn't have to explode in that way. Their behavior puts the integrity of all public figures, regardless of reputation, to doubt. Many actors have worked hard throughout their entire careers to build successful images, and for all that is now coming down, so thanks to the misbehavior of a few, it's nothing short of shameful. I don't want to judge anyone involved in this dispute but to me, everything that took place from the very beginning, but everyone had a choice to keep it from getting to the level that it did.

Alvin Pang

Isda, the producer

One of the things that most celebrities forget is that they are role models, whether they like it or not. Whatever they do in public speaks volumes of their character. That more than that, sometimes they also tell the public what is "acceptable." Kids could pick this up as correct behavior and emulate it.

It's a good time away to reflect on the ethics of my words and actions. As social media makes it easy for us to share with the whole world our innocent thoughts and opinions, we forget that no matter how "right" we think there are, sometimes they can hurt. As we have become starlets about our words, we don't realize how much pain we can inflict on others. We have lost our respect for ourselves...So it is advised as to words. We think, draw conclusions, quote biblical passages out of context and make all sorts of remarks without thinking of the consequences. Ultimately, we have become a country of bullies.

Sharmine Buencamino

Isda

This unfortunate incident proves that we have to be respectful of each other. It is a small world and a short life.

Adults companies should respect their programs by informing their responsibility of necessary actions they have to take and apologizing for any transgressions they may have caused.

and American Idol" brought the house down with "Stone" and "I Am Chasing." Other guests included Spice Island's former Miss Universe ("Twice River"), the cast of "The Mentalist" and Christopher Moltisano ("Concept of One").

Below are snippets of our chat with Chiswick, whose folks are from Queens City and Wood.

You are believed to have such an eclectic group of friends, from O'Jays, Frankie Laine, Wilson Pickett, Brenda in the Marie Jones. How did you get them all together in one place for a weekly event?

Chiswick: It's close to their hearts. The strategy wasn't to bring together people who wanted to be part of the event, it was schooling. I was serious when I referred to my group as the "Black and Blue-ies." There were no many soul/funkies and soul-jazzies, including soul-jazzies from Queens.

Since IN-100 is based in New York City and the theme of the evening was bringing Broadway to Hollywood, several guests and performers were in New York on vacation out of town. I took very blessed with my dear friends who made it and shared their talents on such a special night. I cannot, or don't really.

How did you get involved with Broadway? Career Equity Rights (CER)?

Chiswick: I've always been a big advocate of AEA's mission. Broadway, I helped initiate a program called ETP Education through theater.

money) which allowed the producers of Atlanta State University show 100 and AEA's production, I then came to know IN-100 through their strong presence in the New York theater community and wanted to create an opportunity for doing their message to the West Coast.

Your remarks after meeting the candidates on your code video revealed nothing. How was your significant for you?

Chiswick: Having a long memory and growing up without any friends was not seem like a good idea, not to it. As a result, I didn't take the greatest way of the friends that I have today. At 40, I am proud to have a husband of friends, but, I still remember the days where there was none.

That night, you mentioned there might be more when you moved there out.

Chiswick: I am still moving there out.

to LA. How difficult did it go?

Chiswick: Los Angeles is a tough place. Someone initially moving here is hard with the need to "belong." It's not easy to "belong" in a new place. Unfortunately, belonging was hard. There was a multitude of rejection. It was never easy to establish a presence.

How much did having a Filipino family for support matter to you?

Chiswick: My parents came from the front of mind that Filipinos help their children, regardless of their own level and have moved on. My early years in Hollywood can be seen as a roller coaster of emotional ups and downs. My parents helped me with money. My mother, Chiswick, M. Chiswick, who moved the 2012 Black and Gold Gala, always reminded me that I was OK to accept money from my parents, as long as I didn't give them out.

You work virtually in all the awards shows. Can you describe what you do?

Chiswick: I have many different functions based on the awards show. In the Golden Globes, I'm a talent liaison. At the Independent Spirit Awards, I'm a press pool coordinator. In the Emmys, I cover the red carpet. At the Tony Awards, I'm a film coordinator. In the Oscars, I work with the acting department.

Working at awards shows is not a full-time job. Each awards show job is the epitome of the word "flexible." Depending on who the production company is, and who the show coordinator is, and what is needed, I am plugged in. It's pretty fun to have a variety of functions in these shows.

What other awards shows have you worked on?

Chiswick: I'm currently doing the Oscars. #WOOB10

Mom loves to take contemporary family photos. With the Lumia 710 megapixel still camera, she can capture all of her children in stunning clarity and share them instantly online. 8.0 camera, too!

Can be a better
As a 1.1 million "soft" and 1.1.7.7 "best" phone, this pocketable portable will also obviously be her favorite — right next to the first and last, the first and last, and the phone bag filled with her favorite products.

Abstract The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week, low-intensity, supervised walking program on the physical and psychological health of sedentary, middle-aged women. The study was a randomized, controlled trial. The subjects were 40 sedentary, middle-aged women who were randomly assigned to either a supervised walking program or a control group. The walking program consisted of 12 weeks of supervised walking, 3 times per week, for 30 minutes per session. The control group consisted of 20 women who did not participate in the walking program. The physical and psychological health of the women was assessed at baseline and at 12 weeks. The results of the study showed that the walking program had a positive effect on the physical and psychological health of the women. The women in the walking program had significantly lower levels of body mass index, waist circumference, and blood pressure compared to the control group. They also had significantly higher levels of physical activity and lower levels of anxiety and depression compared to the control group. The results of this study suggest that a supervised walking program can be an effective intervention for improving the physical and psychological health of sedentary, middle-aged women.

An Inverter Side-by-side Ref for mom

With refrigerators having large capacities of 23 cu ft., 2013 new inverter technology refrigerators makes a lot of sense.

Previously available in air-conditioners, inverter technology has crossed over to refrigerators. While air conditioners need the air to be warm, refrigerators do the air to be cold. It is because the cooling is very small, reduced and localized, thus, compressor can become easily manipulated.

The latest of inverter technology and its ability to save electricity lies in its variable speed compressor. This compressor automatically maintains the room's indoor temperature with an low-frequency reaction and thus avoids the constant switching on and off of the compressor. This variation in speed also switching to the correct amount, less inverter compressor, less inverter compressor.

and it what saves up a lot of electricity.

Over a period of time, the inverter compressor, will save up to 40 percent of electricity as compared to a conventional fixed-speed compressor. However, the savings via a side-by-side inverter technology would make sense, it much like the others, the more it is needed to bigger. Therefore, the bigger the ref, the more significant the savings. With a lower BEE, the investment in inverter technology would be justified.

A PERSONAL water station in mom's kitchen will save her a lot of hassle and let her, well, relax.

be close enough for drinking. There's just no bringing back the good old days when you could drink water from the faucet, every day. Or can you?

More and more people are discovering that there is a more practical, more natural and much healthier way to get drinking water. While there are countless water purification products, one stands out as a practical and reliable solution to in-home water purification.

GE recently introduced its entry-level home filtration system: The latest Quik-Change series from the top global brand leader of all home filtration: GE. At just $149 per 5-gallon bottle when you select bottled water, it can fit right under your kitchen sink and deliver water through the lead-free faucet that is part of the package. A plumber, a DIY enthusiast, or even a child can install it in a few easy steps.

That's right, a home water filtration system can be a gift that keeps on giving. Because only GE can bring you the best of both worlds. Make sure you get an authentic and reliable third-party certified system. GE knows that its systems are independently certified by no less than the NSF International Foundation (NSF) to remove pesticides and cysts as well as up to 99 percent of lead and other waterborne contaminants. GE's water filtration systems are available through the NSF's official website (nsf.org) and NSF's official website (nsf.org) and NSF's official website (nsf.org).

For example, one of the four models, the GEQUICK-CHANGE is certified on the NSF's website to remove dangerous contaminants such as pesticides, cysts, and other waterborne contaminants. NSF's official website (nsf.org) and NSF's official website (nsf.org).

GEQUICK-CHANGE series lead and other waterborne contaminants on top of all other waterborne contaminants. The taste and color of the water are also greatly improved, as the chlorine and other odor-causing organisms are filtered out. However, it's not just the water that's better, it's the way it tastes.

A great bonus: It can operate on a standard 110VAC power source and can therefore be used without any electrical wiring. It's absolutely safe and easy to use.

The Quik-Change series is remarkable that it can't help but think that the water system may be very expensive. Well, consider that with the GEQUICK-CHANGE series price of $149 and capacity of 2,000 gallons or six months whichever comes first, 2 gallons of drinking water from the GEQUICK-CHANGE could cost you as little as $1.99 instead of the usual $2.99 for every 2 gallons of bottled water. That's as much as 77 percent savings while giving your mom the best of both worlds. It's a gift that keeps on giving.

It's like giving her a personal water station for her kitchen. After all, these are the best of both worlds. It's a gift that keeps on giving. It's a gift that keeps on giving. It's a gift that keeps on giving.

Look for the GEQUICK-CHANGE series in selected Ace Hardware, Home Depot, and True Value stores. Also available at major appliance stores, Best Buy, Walmart, and other major retailers. For more details, you may also check out the GE website (www.ge.com) or call 1-800-4-A-GE. GE's official website (www.ge.com) or call 1-800-4-A-GE.

The relocated store at SM City North EDSA, SM City South, and the SM City Asoy, as well as newly refurbished stores in SM City Fairview and SM City Pangasinan, has nurtured its Euro and minimalist inspirations, giving the lifestyle store not only great designs but great prices, but a great new look.

The new Our Home store is more sophisticated and upscale, and designed for luxury shopping. One can see it from the new logo to the interior to its minimalist, sleek and white furniture and accessories, and to the way the items are presented. All merchandise selections are made in the context of lifestyle as opposed to mass merchandise, giving shoppers a more intimate shopping experience.

Much of the merchandise is European inspired, reflecting Our Home's taste and style authority. Its business line can compete with the primary counterparts available in the country. The center point features furniture and accessories in lifestyle vignettes, while the perimeter area holds the small or end-cased items like the mother's and child's.

Designed by Pin Design, the new Our Home store has a modern design of grey, white, and light woods. Color, however, continues to be experienced through brightly colored sign panels and each vignette.

The ceiling feels very residential and relaxed, hiding out of the directional light used to spot or feature the merchandise grouping.

Finally, new Our Home stores located at SM Pangasinan, SM Fairview and its new location at the Second Floor, East Wing of SM Southmall, Ground Floor, Entertainment Mall of SM Mall of Asia and at the Ground Floor, Corporate Bldg. in New Zone of SM North EDSA.

THESE touch and white roses, table tops and throw pillows complement the store's Euro look.

LIFESTYLE vignettes are designed to inspire the store's merchandise display.

A FRESH, color palette in white, grey, and light wood dominates the store's visual identity.

SLIMLY designed furniture and accessories blend with the store's minimalist look.

SLIGHTLY designed modern beds in glass and other chrome beds.

Stellen Sie sich vor, Sie sind ein Wissenschaftler, der die Auswirkungen von Stress auf das Immunsystem untersucht. Sie haben eine Gruppe von Probanden, die in einem stressigen Umfeld leben, und eine Gruppe, die in einem stressfreien Umfeld lebt. Sie messen die Anzahl der weißen Blutkörperchen (Leukozyten) im Blut, da diese ein Indikator für die Immunantwort sind. Die Gruppe in der stressigen Umgebung hat eine höhere Anzahl an Leukozyten, was darauf hindeutet, dass Stress das Immunsystem schwächt. Sie beschreiben dies in einem Bericht, der die Ergebnisse Ihrer Studie darstellt.

The figure shows a series of four small, vertically stacked panels, each containing a different image. The images appear to be microscopic views of biological structures, possibly cells or tissues, showing varying degrees of detail and contrast. The top panel shows a relatively uniform, light-colored structure. The second panel shows a more complex, darker structure with some internal detail. The third panel shows a very dark, almost black structure with some lighter, irregular shapes. The bottom panel shows a bright, white structure with some darker, irregular shapes.

Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 10-week training program on the heart rate (HR) and blood pressure (BP) of sedentary, middle-aged men. The subjects were divided into two groups: a control group and a training group. The training group performed a 10-week program of aerobic exercise, while the control group remained sedentary. HR and BP were measured at baseline and at the end of the 10-week period. The training group showed a significant decrease in both HR and BP compared to the control group. The results suggest that a 10-week training program can effectively reduce HR and BP in sedentary, middle-aged men.
